

Would the animal welfare organisation you work for benefit from stocking Cool to be Kind silicone wristbands?

We donate free wristbands to animal welfare organisations by using profits from the retail sales of Cool to be Kind wristbands sold here at Tilley Farm. Each wristband sold at full retail price can generate approximately eight free wristbands. The number of free wristbands created by each sale will vary slightly depending on the location of the charities we donate to, as we cover postage and packing too.

Any animal welfare charity or non-profit organisation can apply for free wristbands. We will send out a starter pack of 30 wristbands in assorted colours, and include some in the small size which are suitable for both small adults and children.

We suggest that the organisation retains some of the money generated from the profits to purchase further wristbands at cost price from us (currently 0.22p each plus VAT and postage) if they prove popular with supporters. If we can, we will send repeat donations but availability of free wristbands is dependent on retail sales and the number of applications we receive.

We ask that the wristbands are sold at a minimum of £2.40 each to maintain a level playing field.

If you would like to apply for free wristbands, or want to order wristbands at cost price, please fill in this form and send it using the email link at the bottom of the form, or post it to Tilley Farm.

If you volunteer for a charity you can purchase fundraisers packs of 20 wristbands through our online shop and donate the profits to the charity of your choice.
